WORKERS SEARCH IN RUINS TODAY

Neighbors Find Portions of the Remains of Mrs. L. B. Harris
Who Was Burned.

FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Will be Conducted at Home of W. E.
Wallace by Revs. J. B. Meacham and W. H. Clark.

THEORY IS SHE SUFFOCATED

Foul Play Theory is Scouted by Her Friends—Origin of Fire
Unsolved.

Neighbors continued to dig among the ruins of the L. B. Harris country home today for portions of the remains of Mrs. Harris, who was burned to death in the fire that destroyed the home yesterday afternoon. The workers succeeded in finding about a cigar box full of portions of her body. The main trunk of her body was found yesterday afternoon.

The funeral services will be conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace at 424 North Perkins street tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. John B. Meacham of the First Presbyterian church and the Rev. W. H. Clark of the Connersville Presbyterian church, formerly of this city will be in charge.

The best solution of the tragedy at Ashland farm yesterday afternoon appears to be that Mrs. Harris suffocated while fighting the fire. This solution is supported by the assertion of James Alexander, Harris' nearest neighbor, who was the first to enter the house, that a tin bucket was setting at the top of the stairway.

Mr. Alexander holds to this statement. He says that he is certain that he saw a bucket at the head of the stairs. He intended to go to the second story, but was driven back by the smoke, heat and flames. This leads to the belief that Mrs. Harris had discovered a fire in the second story of the house and was attempting to quench it with water.

Friends of Mrs. Harris like to cling to the theory that she died of heart failure, because in that event it means that she did not suffer the agony of burning to death. In case she was suffocated by smoke she would likely not have suffered so much pain.

The foul play theory is scouted by most people although there are those who hold that it is as good a solution of the mystery as can be found. It is highly probable, however, that the tragic ending of the life of Mrs. Harris will ever remain a mystery and will go down in the history of the county as one of the most terrible happenings that the community has ever recorded.

Mrs. Harris had little of value about the house which would tempt a robber who might fire the house to cover up his crime. She owned a few jewels, some little cut glass and some silverware, but not enough of any of the articles to make the means which have been suggested might have been employed to rob her, reconcilable with such a theory.

The only incident which might lead to the belief that Mrs. Harris was murdered and then a fire applied to her body is the fact that James Alexander believes he heard the screams of a woman shortly after twelve o'clock. On second thought, however, Mr. Alexander is not so certain that he heard shrieks of a woman. At any rate they were not plain enough to make a great impression on his

TO NAME CONVENTION DATE

Sam Trabue Will Attend District Convention Friday.

Sam Trabue, Democratic county chairman, will go to Cambridge City Friday morning to attend a meeting of the Sixth district Democratic committee, which has been called by Charles B. Beck of Richmond, district chairman. The meeting was called for the purpose of selecting a date for holding the Sixth district congressional convention. It is not likely the convention will be held before congress adjourns as it is intended to give Congressman Gray an opportunity to talk to the delegates.

F. E. WOLCOTT IS NEW PRESIDENT

He is Elected Head of Rush County
Chautauqua Association at Reorganization Meeting.

C. JACKSON, VICE-PRESIDENT

At the reorganization meeting of the directors of the Rush County Chautauqua Association in Watson, Tipton & Green's law offices, F. E. Wolcott was elected president of the association, to succeed Lincoln Guffin, who acted as president since the beginning of the organization. Carey Jackson was elected vice-president. He succeeds C. H. Parsons, who is no longer a member of the board of directors. Prof. J. H. Scholl was re-elected secretary of the association, and Earl H. Payne, treasurer.

Some minor matters of business were transacted this morning. It was intimated at the meeting that the board expects to rent the coliseum for many purposes this spring. It is supposed the political conventions will be held there, as there is no other suitable place in the city. A scale of prices for renting as been prepared. The officers of the association were made a committee to have charge of the leasing of the building.

LOCAL EVANGELIST IS SUCCESSFUL

Rev. F. B. Stearns Conducts Meeting at Belmore, O., With Over a Hundred Conversions.

SERVICES CLOSE THIS WEEK

Rev. F. B. Stearns, Ph. D., and his singer, R. N. Rowe, who many of our people will remember, are in the fourth week of a union meeting at Belmore, Ohio, near Toledo. Mr. Stearns writes that the largest church in the town has been filled night after night, and at times people were turned away. The attendance at the day services has reached the two hundred and fifty mark at times. More than one hundred have accepted Christ thus far and the interest is unabated.

The men of the village gave a banquet at the town hall Wednesday noon, in honor of Rev. Stearns and his work, at which one hundred and fifty covers were laid. The meeting will close Friday night and Mr. Stearns will go to Ottawa, the county seat, where he will give his sermon on "Booze" at a union meeting of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches on Sunday night.

CELEBRATE HER 92D BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Mary Montgomery, Formerly of Rush County, Enjoys Rare Use of Faculties.

AT SUCH A RIPE OLD AGE

Recalls Meteoric Shower of 1833,
While a Girl in This County—
Daughter of Revolution.

Tuesday was the ninety-second birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mary Montgomery of 431 West Mechanic street of this city, says the Shelbyville Republican. Mrs. Montgomery is probably the oldest woman in Shelby county except one, and is hale and hearty and enjoying life. She has a most excellent appetite, good sight and hearing, enjoys reading and other good things of life.

Mrs. Montgomery makes her home with her daughters, Misses Joanna and Martha Montgomery. She was born in Butler county, Ohio, March 12, 1820, and came to Rush county, this State, with her parents, Philip and Amelia Young, in 1826. After she was grown she moved to Shelby county, and has lived here for about 70 years.

She was married January 10, 1843, to Benjamin Young, and to this union were born two sons and one daughter. After the death of her first husband, she was united in marriage to William Montgomery and to this union were born eight children, five sons and three daughters, and of these all are living except one son.

Mrs. Montgomery as a girl in Rush county well remembers the big meteoric shower of 1833, when a lot of people thought the world was coming to an end. Mrs. Montgomery is a real genuine daughter of the American Revolution, as her father, Philip Young, was a soldier in the Revolutionary army. She has a gold spoon which was given to her by the general order in honor of her being made a member.

She has been a great worker and now has a beautiful quilt 72 years old that was pieced by herself when a young lady. It is artistic in design and finish, known as the Washington flume. She has another quilt made by her after she was 80 years of age, and it shows equally as skillful workmanship. It has 1760 points and every one of them in its proper place. She offers to make a new quilt for anyone who can find a point that is not correctly placed.

Mrs. Montgomery enjoyed her birthday yesterday very much. She had presents of flowers, fruits, candies, cakes, handsome cards from sons, daughters, grandchildren and friends. One of the most enjoyable presents she had was a large and handsome cake from her great-grandchildren, Wallace and Lois Marietta, at Parsons, Kansas. The cake had the picture of these great-grandchildren and their mother on it, and the letters, "To Grandma on her 92d birthday." The cake was baked by Van Miles Bros., of Parsons, who certainly run an up-to-date baking establishment for all kinds of products.

TOWN FULL OF WIDOWS.

Waldron, a village southwest of here, has thirty-five widows, all but three owning their own property. Leap year finds many wife seekers in the town, but no engagements have been announced. A St. Paul man, who recently buried his third wife, proposed to six and left heart free. He left word with a friend he would return yet another day. He places the ban only on soldiers' widows.

MAY FILE WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Attorneys For William Blakemon May Take That Step to Cause Him to be Released.

IS HELD ON ORDER OF COURT

Indictment Quashed, Deputy Prosecutor Holds Affidavit Can't be Filed in Vacation.

Attorneys for William Blakemon may file a writ of habeas corpus in the clerk of the circuit court's office tomorrow in attempting to bring about the release of William Blakemon, who is held in the Rush county jail on an order of the court.

If such a proceeding is started, it will be the first time that a writ has been filed in the Rush circuit court for a number of years. According to court officials a writ of habeas corpus has the same relation to other court actions as does a writ for a restraining order. The hearing on a writ of habeas corpus must be held as soon as possible, whether or not court is in session.

The theory of a writ of habeas corpus is that a person is held unlawfully. In this case Blakemon was charged in a grand jury indictment, together with John Ferguson, another colored man, of blackmailing Marion McCann. The indictment set out that the act was committed May 20, 1912, which is, of course, utterly impossible.

Last Saturday, the closing day of the February term of court, Blakemon's attorneys filed a motion for the indictment to be quashed on the theory that it was impossible and was an absurdity. The court sustained the motion and ordered Blakemon held in jail until the prosecutor could file an affidavit against Blakemon which would be probable.

Wallace Morgan, who acted as prosecutor in the absence of Dennis O'Neil, left the impression that he would file another affidavit at once. So far the affidavit has not been filed, and Wallace Morgan says that it will not be filed until the opening of the next term of court, because, he says, the statute provides that such an affidavit can not be filed in vacation.

In that case Blakemon will be held in jail on an order of the court unless he is released on a writ of habeas corpus. The sheriff refuses to allow Blakemon to go free because he must obey the order of the court.

MRS. MARY M'DANIEL DEAD

Expired After Long Illness at Home
West of City.

Mrs. Mary McDaniel, 52 years old, died this morning shortly after eight o'clock at her home west of the city. Mrs. McDaniel had been ill a long time suffering with cancer, which caused her death. A husband and one son, Leon, survive. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the Pleasant Ridge church conducted by the Rev. Mr. Conner of Indianapolis. Burial will take place in the church cemetery.

BIG FIRE IN ADAMS CAUSES $8,000 LOSS

Fifth Destructive One in Last Two Years Wipes Out Entire Business
Block in Small Town.

OVERHEATED STOVE IS CAUSE

The A. F. Hier business block in Adams, a small Decatur county town on the line a few miles below Moscow was wiped out by fire yesterday. The blaze is believed to have started in a stove in the back of the Hier's store. The loss is estimated at $8,000.

The business building owned by John Turner, dealer in groceries and farming implements was destroyed with a loss of $3,000. Mr. Turner, however, carried insurance to the amount of $2,300. A barn owned by Arthur Toothman just back of the other two buildings was burned, the loss being $200. The Big Four depot, an old passenger coach pressed into service after the depot there was destroyed by fire some time ago, would have been destroyed had not a crowd of men pushed it beyond the fire zone. It is the fifth destructive fire which has occurred in Adams in the last two years.

DREAMS MRS. L. B. HARRIS WAS KILLED

Local Attorney Has Realistic Visions
During Sleep of Foul Murder at Scene of Fire.

COAL OIL POURED ON HER BODY

Relating to what is commonly discussed as the worst tragedy in Rush county in recent years, is the very realistic dream last night of a Rushville attorney. In the reverie he saw Mrs. L. B. Harris murdered in cold blood by two young men, and then fired. The fanciful creation of his imagination revealed to him as plainly as if it happened in real life that a young man of this city, whose name he could not quite connect with the story, drove out to the Harris home yesterday morning in a buggy, and got a boy younger than himself to assist him in his murderous task. The vision is all plain to him yet. When he awakened this morning he could not shake off the impression that such a thing really happened. He dreamed that the boys picked up a hammer or some blunt instrument out in the yard near the pump, and went to the upstairs room where they killed Mrs. Harris. After that, he dreamed they poured coal oil on her clothes and set fire to her body. The motive for the murder never worked out in the mental delusion, and the attorney can not remember this morning that the dream revealed what the two did after they set fire to the body.

DELEGATES TO 5 CONVENTIONS

Will be Elected by Republicans Friday Night in City and in Townships Saturday.

THE STATE CONVENTION FIRST

Joint Senatorial and Congressional Conventions Will be Held at Connersville, March 28.

Politics in Rush county is beginning to pick up a little. The end of this week will see the election of delegates and alternate delegates to the State convention to elect four delegates and four alternates to the Republican national convention, to the Sixth district congressional convention to elect two delegates and two alternates from the district to the national convention, to the Rush-Fayette-Hancock joint senatorial convention to nominate a candidate for joint senator, to the county and judicial conventions.

The Republicans of the city of Rushville will meet in the court house assembly room Friday night to elect delegates to the five conventions. Delegates in the townships will be elected Saturday. The joint senatorial convention will be held at Connersville Thursday morning, March 28, at ten o'clock.

On the afternoon of the same day the congressional convention will be held at Connersville. It is believed that the two delegates from this district will go instructed to vote for the president.

The State delegates elected will not only serve in the regular State convention, the day of which has not been set, but also in the special State convention which will be held in Indianapolis Tuesday, March 26, to elect the four delegates at large to the national Republican convention.

The delegates to the county convention will meet here Saturday, March 30, to nominate the county ticket. There are seventeen candidates for the seven nominations which will be made. The date for the judicial convention has not been set. It will be held merely for the purpose of nominating a candidate for prosecutor of the Rush-Shelby circuit.

HOWARD BARRETT, PROBATE OFFICER

Local Attorney is Appointed by Judge
Blair to Investigate Carthage Shooting.

TO REPORT BACK IN WRITING

Judge Alonzo Blair today notified the clerk of the circuit court that he had appointed Howard Barrett probate officer to investigate the Carthage shooting case and report back to him. Last week Judge Blair intimated that he would appoint an attorney to do this work. He intended to name the probate official the closing day of the February term, but neglected to do it.

According to Judge Blair, it will be the duty of this special probate officer to investigate the case thoroughly. He will be expected to learn the hereditary tendencies of Roy Lincoff, who is supposed to have shot and killed Howard McDaniel, and to find the surroundings in which he has lived. All causes that might be assigned as reasons for him committing such an act are supposed to be determined. In such cases the special probate officer reports to the judge in writing and then the court decides what course should be pursued.

Talkative Clerk Makes a Few
Observations on March in General

"Well, I see that your paper had some real live news from foreign shores yesterday, in addition to the English coal miners' strike and the doings of the suffragettes," said the Talkative Clerk to a reporter, as the latter entered the door and kicked off his overshoes.

"I refer to the discovery of the south pole by Captain Roald Amundsen, of Norway, and Captain R. F. Scott, of England. Just which of them discovered the pole first, or whether they were both there at the same time, I am unable to state. Even the principals themselves refuse to talk, probably because they remember the lamented fate of one Dr. Cook, who talked too early about a similar subject only a few short years ago.

"At least that is the reason I would give for their hesitancy about launching into print. Of course, it may be that they want to give their experiences to the public through the lurid magazine at five cents per word, but I am loathe to attribute such selfish characteristics to two of the foremost explorers of the day.

"Be that as it may, for some reason or other the south pole has always had to take a back seat in the publicity department of the world in bygone years. Everyone seemed interested in the north pole, and wanted to see it captured very badly. Just why this is true, I don't know. The south pole is much farther away from us than the north one, and yet its discovery has never been regarded as so great a feat. The announcement of the discovery of the south pole by two men is not causing near as much excitement as the Cook Peary incident and the newspapers are not using near as much black type in the headlines for this discovery. Why, when Cook and Peary flashed back their famous telegrams it was spread all over the front page of every paper in the country from the New York Herald down to the Pumpkin Center Bugle.

"And expeditions for the discovery of the north pole have been starting out for a much longer period of time than the excursion trips into the antarctic regions. Why, the Vikings penetrated the arctic circle five centuries before Columbus discovered America, and there have been dozens of expeditions in search of the northernmost point on the earth since. Sir Martin Frobisher went out in search of northern glory for Queen Elizabeth back in 1576. Soon after this Henryk Hudson discovered Hudson's bay and then William Baffin came across Baffin's bay in 1615. James Cook—no relation to the doctor—tried to find the northwest passage in 1779 and was killed by the natives. Sir Edward Parry—no relation to the commodore—made several trips into the northern regions about a hundred years ago and was liberally rewarded by the British parliament.

More recent polar expeditions are well known to nearly every reader of history. They were made by Elisha Kent Kane, in 1854; by General Greeley, in 1881, and F. Nansen, in 1895. Then along came Commander Peary, who discovered the pole in 1909. Over the name of Dr. Cook I will draw the mantle of charity. His cause has now been taken up by the moving picture men.

"The first recorded dash for the southern polar regions was made by Alvaro Mandana, a native of Peru—not Indiana, but South America—in the year 1567. Jacob Mahu, a Dutch admiral sailed from Rotterdam in 1858 and his ship, the Good News, was the first ever to reach the antarctic circle.

"Captain Cook, in 1777, again crossed the circle and reached a southern latitude of more than 71 degrees. Sir James Ross got as far as the 78th parallel in 1842. In 1892 Captain Scott penetrated the ice as far as 82 degrees, and Captain Shackleton in 1909, almost reached the goal, ending his southern trip at 88 degrees, 23 minutes, just 111 miles from the pole.

"What do I know about the south pole? Well, never having been there myself, the best thing I can do is to register a guess. The best posted scientists tell us that the south pole is situated on an antarctic continent, larger than the United States and with an area of five million miles. This is, of course principally ice, and would be worth some money up around Chicago about the middle of next July. The pole is supposed to be situated on a table land about ten thousand feet above the level of the sea. The great ice barrier we hear so much about is a giant glacier, 700 miles long, and hundreds of miles broad in places, varying from a height of 100 to 300 feet.

"The breaking off of portions of this glacier each summer produces the largest crop of ice bergs in the world. It is probable that the pole itself is buried under ice 5,000 feet thick. Still, if the ice were transparent, I suppose it might be possible for Scott and Amundsen to see it, and tell whether it is painted the regulation red, white and blue.

"Vegetation in the antarctic circle is principally moss and there are no native human beings living there. A few penguins, great awkward birds, constitute the only inhabitants, even along the coast.

"Some scientists claim that centuries ago the south pole was in a tropical region, but that some way the axis of the earth got twisted around, bringing the pole into the ice belt. No wonder the inhabitants left then.

"And last, but not least, the earth wobbles and shifts so that the pole does not remain in the same place all the time. So if the explorers go back again next year they are liable to find it over in another county.

"But now that the south pole is discovered, what are we going to do with it? Probably it will be left alone for awhile, but I venture to say that before many years some aspiring Pierpont Morgan will buy the blooming thing and have it brought up to the United States and placed in the Metropolitan Museum of Arts, or the Smithsonian institute. Then we may get to see it without taking that long trip south.

"So cheer up, it may come out all right yet."

R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barnegat, N. J., was troubled with a severe lagrippe cough. He says: "I would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and before I had taken it all the coughing spells had entirely ceased. It can't be beat." F. B. Johnson & Co.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

A Paterson, N. J., young woman, Miss Elizabeth Bushloper, has written a message to the women of America that will be of great value to those who heed it. She says:

"Every spring for some years I have been debilitated, having general weakness and feeling tired and worn-out all the time. This spring I determined I would fight it off with Vinol. Vinol has done all that was claimed for it. It has given me new strength and vigor, I can eat heartily and my sleep is light and refreshing.

"I wish every tired-out woman could know what great good Vinol would do her." Spring is the most trying time of year for most people, and it is well to know that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, is the most valuable spring medicine.

Its blood enriching and strength-creating effects are just what one needs, and as we will certainly give back your money if you are not satisfied with Vinol, you ought to get a bottle right away. F. B. Johnson & Co., druggists, Rushville, Ind.

Development of Highways Will be Beneficial to All in Community.

In a statement just issued by Mr. W. W. Finley, President of the Southern Railway Company and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Association for Highway Improvement, an earnest plea is made to the farmers of the country to join forces with a view to improving country highways which radiate from market towns or shipping centers.

"Broadly speaking," says President Finley, in his statement, "country highways may be divided into general classes—those which may be denominated trunk lines, running for long distance and connecting the cities and towns along their routes, and those which radiate from a market town or shipping station.

"The first of these classes—the trunk line highways—afford ideal routes for tourists. There are some localities, especially those most frequented by tourists, where the construction of trunk line highways of this class is highly desirable and their improvement necessarily benefits the farmers adjacent to them.

"At the risk, however, of seeming to be actuated by the interest of the railways, I have no hesitation in saying that, if the greatest good is to be done to the greatest numbers the farmer is more interested in the improvement of the roads of the second class which I have mentioned—those radiating from a market town or shipping station.

"By giving attention, first, to those parts of the roads immediately adjacent to the towns shipping stations and extending improvements out into the country year after year as funds may become available, entire regions will, in time, be traversed by good roads. Then, by connecting up adjoining systems of these radiating roads, trunk lines and through roads for tourists will ultimately be formed.

"The improvement of these radiating roads will be beneficial to not only the farmer, but also to a large proportion of the dwellers in cities and towns. They will enlarge the trade of retail merchants, facilitate work of rural mail carriers, and extend the limits within which local newspapers can be circulated on the day of publications."

STORY TOO THIN

Eugene Grace's Charge Against Wife Now Generally Discredited.

Atlanta, Ga., March 13.—Disclosures in regard to Eugene Grace have caused sentiment to veer in favor of his wife, who is confined in jail on a charge of shooting him after poisoning him and locking him up to die. So strongly has sentiment veered toward Mrs. Grace that her husband's story that he was drugged and shot by his wife is generally questioned.

Former Chief of Police Bell in an analysis of the case for a newspaper, bluntly states Grace has not told the truth and that Mrs. Grace is sure of acquittal because there is no legal evidence against her. The physicians state that Grace will recover. Mrs. Grace still protests her love for her husband.

THE COLONEL WAS A DISAPPOINTED MAN

Couldn't Understand Why They Let Him Off.

Oyster Bay, March 13.—In the Nassau county courthouse in Mineola Juror Theodore Roosevelt was challenged by the lawyer for a boy, who after losing both legs under the wheels of a railroad train, is suing for damages. Surrogate J. J. Graham, representing the boy, did not even ask Colonel Roosevelt a question as to his qualifications as a juror. He merely said as the ex-president took seat No. 7 in the box: "This will be a long case, colonel, and I'll excuse you."

Colonel Roosevelt, having motored the nineteen miles between Sagamore Hill and the courthouse every morning for six days, was evidently disappointed. Subsequently in a talk with Surrogate Graham, he asked: "Who was it that did not want me?"

Someone ready with misinformation replied that it was the lawyers for the railroad who had refused his services. "Why, I'd give even a railroad a square deal," he exclaimed. When he was later told that it was the counsel for the crippled boy who considered him an undesirable juror, he seemed more puzzled than before. "I don't see what counsel for the boy had to fear. I certainly would have been guided by the evidence," said he.

TO BREAK UP COLD

Some Advice That Will Save Time and Money.

Strong drink and quinine may relieve a cold, but it usually does more harm than good.

To break up a hard cold in either head or chest thousands are using this sensible treatment.

First of all look after your bowels; if they need attention use any reliable cathartic. Then pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with a towel and breathe for 5 or 10 minutes the pleasant, soothing, healing vapor.

Do this just before going to bed: your head will feel fine and clear and you'll awake from a refreshing sleep minus a cold in the morning.

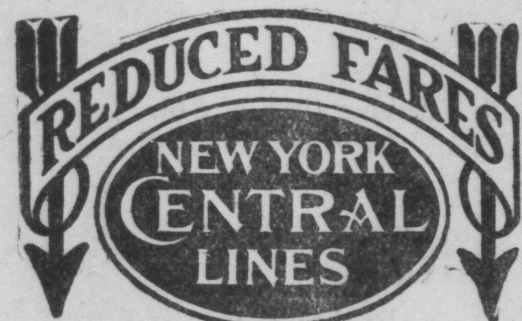

For colds, coughs, catarrh, asthma and croup HYOMEI is guaranteed. A fifty cent bottle is all you need to break up a cold and this can be obtained at F. B. Johnson & Co. and druggists everywhere.

TELEPHONE NUMBER, 1111.

Edward Daniels, a prominent attorney of Tipton, and a candidate for congress two years ago, writes an interesting article for the Tipton Advocate that should attract the attention of the farmers who oppose President Taft on account of Canadian reciprocity says the Noblesville Ledger.

The article is as follows:

"While it occurs to me, a Republican solely because of a belief in what I understand to be the principles of this particular political party, that the recent stand taken by Theodore Roosevelt in his Columbus, O. speech in favor of initiative, referendum and recall should completely eliminate him from all consideration as a presidential nominee of the Republican party, yet there are many who conscientiously profess to be Republicans who continue to support his candidacy and to oppose Taft.

"In a letter published in your paper February 12, I stated that much of the opposition to the renomination of President Taft was because of his attitude upon the recently proposed reciprocity treaty with Canada. This opposition comes principally from farmers who have conceived the idea that the treaty, if consummated, would have had a harmful effect upon the price of their money products, and, in my opinion in this locality at least constitutes a great portion of the anti-Taft and pro-Roosevelt sentiment. Now, there could be some logic in this situation if those who oppose Taft because he urged and supported the treaty, would give their support to the candidacy of La-Follette. There can be no question as to his attitude upon the subject as he fought and voted against the treaty in this senate.

"But why should Roosevelt receive any such support? Have these farmers made any investigation as to how Roosevelt stood upon the subject? True he was not the President or a senator, but he was the most influential private citizen of this country. He is being acclaimed as the 'apostle of the square deal.' In the interest of fair play and a 'square deal,' it should be made generally known that when the Canadian reciprocity measure was pending in the house, in February, 1911, Roosevelt in two speeches, one at Grand Rapids, Mich., and the other in New York city, specifically and in decided terms endorsed, approved and urged Canadian reciprocity, in the form in which it was proposed in that measure.

"Is it not better to investigate and learn some of these things now, instead of making what, in my humble opinion, would be a fatal blunder, by defeating Taft and getting out information afterward?

St. Patrick is a character so overflowing with optimism and good humor that he commends a general interest to an extent rare with any racial hero. Protestants frequently show a friendly sympathy by wearing a bit of green, and they might well also learn something of the traditions of the day.

St. Patrick kindles the enthusiasm of every Irishman, perhaps for one reason because of a dauntless courage that is very typical of the race. Tradition says that in Patrick's day the idol Cromeranch was worshipped by King Tigernas and his nobles and people, with the highest veneration. Yet disregarding pains and penalties of courts and kings, Patrick lifted up his staff when approached the image of gold and silver, and commanded the devil to come out of him. Thereupon the image fell over, and twelve smaller idols were swallowed up in the earth.

And so in after years, the genius of the Irish race has never stopped to count the cost of defiance to potentates or enemies. The rolls of our soldiery have always been thickly strewn with Irish names, and no strain of blood can be found more largely in the American National Guard or the regular army and navy today.

The Richmond Item says: "John J. McNamara has received 54,726 votes, second to Eugene V. Debs, with 65,928, in a straw poll being taken by the Appeal to Reason. However, it is not expected that John J. will feel encouraged to make the race, even though his comrades should prefer him to Debs. Victor Berger probably did not consider the strength of the organization (the San Quentin prison guard) back of the dynamiter, when he estimated the party would cast 2,000,000 in this year's presidential election. The conspirators with whom the former secretary-treasurer of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union worked, ought easily to make it 3,000,000."

But the Item neglects to mention that Theodore Roosevelt ran fourth in the poll taken by the Appeal to Reason with a total vote of 41,384. Sam Gompers was third with 48,225. Fine company for the colonel.

To be a progressive does not necessitate subscribing to every new political position, however radical or dangerous it may be, says the Seymour Republican. President Taft has shown a progressive spirit and has labored conscientiously to accomplish the reforms in government and for the regulation of interests which have become dangerous to the general welfare. In his Chicago speech he asserted that he is willing to stand by the record of his administration along this line. The more his record and his attitude on present day questions are studied the plainer it becomes that he is a progressive and at the same time safe executive.

I have tried many kinds of flour, and combinations of flours, and for all purposes I find "CLARK'S PURITY" the best I have ever used. It gives cakes a fine grain, makes bread sweet and white, and may be used perfectly for all kinds of pastry. This makes it cheaper in the long run than other grades. Where one must mix spring and winter wheat flours to get results it increases the already high cost of living. QUALITY and ECONOMY lead me to use "CLARK'S PURITY."

Henry W. Savage will offer for the first time in Indianapolis at the Shubert Murat next Monday, March 18th, the sensationally successful dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," which occupies a distinctive and unique field upon the American stage. The play is a combination of comedy, drama, opera and spectacle and partakes of the nature of all. It was founded by its author, Walter Browne, upon the ancient morality play, "Everyman," enacted throughout the country a few years ago by a band of English players, but instead of being lugubrious and gloomy as was that work, it is a creation full of light and color, entertaining, as well as instructive. Mr. Savage says that "Everywoman" represents the most important dramatic production he has ever made, which assertion is rendered impressive, remembering the productions of "Parsifal" and "Madam Butterfly" which came from his Studios, "Everywoman" represents a real outlay of sixty thousand dollars. One hundred workmen were employed for six months in building the scenery, while a small army of experts were employed in preparing the costumes and the lighting effects. "Everywoman" has a special symphonic orchestral accompaniment, the music for which was composed by George Whitefield Chadwick, Dean of the New England Conservatory of Music. The costumes were made from original drawings by Hy. Mayer, the cartoonist and magazine illustrator, and the entire production was staged by George Marion. The company is a large one, as there are thirty-seven speaking characters, and over one hundred and forty people are required to give verisimilitude to the big scenes. Among the distinguished names in the cast are those of Frederick Warde, the eminent tragedian;

Marie Wainwright, the former legitimate star, and Jane Caker, one of the most beautiful and talented of the young leading women of the stage. Seat sale opens on Thursday, March 14th. ### AMUSEMENTS

The Palace offers the usual two pictures tonight. The first is a comedy, "Foolshhead's Six Duels." The picture is by the Itala company creators of the "Foolshhead" series of comedies. "Master of the Vineyard" is the subject of an American drama.

The first picture at the Portola tonight is a Biograph drama, "The Voice of a Child." It is said to be a fine picture, telling a beautiful story. The other is an Edison "Eleanore Cuyler." Friday and Saturday nights the feature Biograph, "A Blot in the Scutcheon," an adaptation of Robert Browning's poem will be shown. There is possibly no literary classic better known than this work of Browning, in which he presents in his inimitable manner the result of vanity. The picture shows the famous poem in complete detail and is said to be a wonderful production.

"A Red Cross Martyr" or "On the Firing Lines of Tripoli," which will be shown at the Princess theater this evening, is said to be one of the most thrilling feature photoplays ever shown here. The film is replete with stirring action, great battle scenes and heart interest. When war is declared Lieutenant Troyano, a young Italian officer, hurries to the front after first bidding farewell to his sweetheart, Marie Petri. Marie reads the vivid accounts of the battles, and her desire to be on the scene causes her to enlist as a Red Cross nurse. In a small town Marie is shot down during an engagement between the Turks and Italians. The commanding general is angered by the murder of the young woman who was bent on a mission of mercy and orders that the city where the tragedy occurred be destroyed. Lieut. Troyano pleads with the commanding general to lead the attack and he is dispatched with an aeroplane. Slowly but surely the lieutenant who was enraged by the villainous murder of his sweetheart drops bomb after bomb into the city and mutilates the Turkish forces. He grows braver and descends nearer the city to wreak greater havoc. The motion

"I brought the children's coats along," said Mrs. Maitland, extending three others.

"Good," said Kirkby. "Now we'll take our packs an'—"

"Do you think there is any danger to Robert?"

"He'll git nothin' worse 'n a wet-tin," returned the old man confidently. "If we'd pitched the tents up on the hog back, that's all we'd a been in for."

"I have to leave the tents and all the things," said Mrs. Maitland. "You can stay with them," answered Kirkby, dryly, "but if what I think 's goin' to happen comes off, you won't have no need of nothin' no more—Great God, here she comes."

As he spoke there was a sudden, swift downpour of rain, not in drops, but in a torrent. Catching up his own pack and motioning the woman to do likewise with her load, Kirkby caught her by the hand, and half led, half dragged her up the steep trail from the brook to the ridge which bordered the side of the canon. The canon was much wider here than further up and there was much more room and much more space for the water to spread. Yet, they had to hurry for their lives as it was. They had gone up scarcely a hundred feet when the disgorge-ment of the heavens took place. The water fell with such force, directness and continuousness that it almost beat them down. It ran over the trail down the side of the mountain in sheets like water falls. It required all the old man's skill and address to keep himself and companion from losing their footing and falling down into the seething tumult below.

"Great God!" He cried. "Where is Enid?"

The tents went down in an instant. Where there had been a pleasant bit of meadow land was now a muddy, tossing lake of black water. Some of the horses and most of the burros which Pete had been unable to do anything with were engulfed in a moment. The two on the mountain side could see them swimming for dear life as they swept down the canon. Pete himself, with a few of the animals, was already scrambling up to safety.

Speech was impossible between the noise of the falling rain and the incessant peals of thunder, but by persistent gesture, old Kirkby urged the terrified, trembling woman up the trail until they finally reached the top of the hog back, where under the poor shelter of the stunted pines they joined Pete with such of the horses as he had been able to drive up. Kirkby, taking a thought for the morrow, noted that there were four of them, enough to pull the wagon if they could get back to it.

After the first awful deluge of the cloudburst it moderated slightly, but the hard rain came down steadily, the wind rose as well, and in spite of their oilskins they were soon wet and cold. It was impossible to make a fire, there was no place for them to go, nothing to be done. They could only remain where they were and wait. After a half hour of exposure to the merciless fury of the storm, a thought came suddenly to Mrs. Maitland. She leaned over and caught the frontiersman by his wet sleeve. Seeing that she wished to speak to him, he bent his head toward her lips.

"Enid," she cried, pointing down the canon. "She had not thought before of the position of the girl."

Kirkby, who had not forgotten her, but who had instantly realized that he could do nothing for her, shook his head, lifted his eyes and solemnly pointed his finger up to the gray skies. He had said nothing to Mrs. Maitland before. What was the use of troubling her.

"God only kin help her," he cried. "She's beyond the help of man."

Ah, indeed, old trapper, whence came the confident assurance of that dogmatic statement? For as it chanced, at that very moment the woman for whose peril your heart was wrung was being lifted out of the torrent by a man's hand! And yet, who shall say that the old hunter was not right, and that the man himself, as men of old have been, was sent from God?

"It can't be," began Mrs. Maitland in great anguish for the girl she had grown to love.

"If she seed the storm an' realized what it was, an' had sense enough to climb up the canon wall," answered the other, "she won't be no worse off'n we are; ef not—"

Mrs. Maitland had only to look down into the seething cauldron to understand the possibility of that "if."

"Oh," she cried, "let us pray for her that she sought the hills."

"I've been a doin' it," said the old man gruffly.

He had a deep vein of piety in him, but, like other rich ores, it had to be mined for in the depths before it was apparent.

By slow degrees the water subsided, and after a long while the rain ceased, a heavy mist lay on the mountains and the night approached without any further appearance of the veiled sun. Toward evening Robert

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Rushville Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidneys ills follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Rushville people endorse our claim.

Mason Maxey, 836 W. Third street, Rushville, Ind., says "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy of great merit and I therefore hold them in high esteem. When I procured my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store, three years ago, I was badly in need of a remedy that would relieve me of the pains in my back. I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable preparation for that purpose and by the time I had finished the contents of two boxes, the pain had disappeared. I publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and the lapse of three years has not changed my opinion of them. I willingly confirm all I said in my original statement."

Maitland, with the three men and the three children, joined the wretched trio above the camp. Maitland, wild with excitement and apprehension, had pressed on ahead of the rest. It was a glad-faced man indeed who ran the last few steps of the rough way and clasped his wife in his arms, but as he did so he noticed that one was missing.

"Great God," he cried, releasing his wife, "where is Enid?"

"She went down the canon early this mornin' intendin' to stay all day," slowly and reluctantly answered old Kirkby, "an'—"

He paused there. It wasn't necessary for him to say anything more.

Maitland walked to the edge of the trail and looked down into the valley. It had been swept clean of the camp. Rocks had been rolled over upon the meadow land, trunks of trees torn up by the roots had lodged against them. It was a scene of desolate and miserable confusion and disaster.

"Oh, Robert, don't you think she may be safe?" asked Mrs. Maitland.

"There's just a chance, I think, that she may have suspicioned the storm an' got out of the canon," suggested the old frontiersman.

"A slim chance," answered Maitland gloomily. "God, I wouldn't have had this happen for anything on earth."

"Nor me. I'd a heap ruther it had got me than her," said Kirkby simply.

"I didn't see it coming," continued Maitland, nodding as if Kirkby's statement were to be accepted as a matter of course, as indeed it was. "We were on the other slope of the mountain until it was almost overhead."

"Nuther did I. To tell the truth I was lyin' down nappin' w'en Pete, yere, who'd been down the canon rounding up some of the critters, came bustin' in on us."

"I ain't saved but four hosses," said Pete mournfully, "and there's only one burro on the hog back."

"We came back as fast as we could," said Maitland. "I pushed on ahead, George, Bradshaw and Phillips are bringin' Bob and the girls. We must search the canon."

"It can't be done tonight, old man," said Kirkby.

"I tell you we can't wait, Jack!" "We've got to, I'm as willin' to lay down my life for that young gal as anybody on earth, but in this vere most an' as black a night as it's goin' to be, we couldn't go ten rod without killin' ourselves an' we couldn't see nothin' noways."

"But she may be in the canon."

"If she's in the canon 'twon't make no difference to her w'ether we finds her tomorrer or next day or next year, Bob."

Maitland groaned in anguish. "I can't stay here inactive," he persisted stubbornly.

"It's a hard thing, but we got to wait till mornin'. Ef she got out of the canon and climbed up on the hog back she'll be all right, she'll soon find out she can't make no progress in this mist and darkness. No, old friend, we're up agin it hard. We jest got to stay the night w'ere we are an' as long as we got to wait we might as well make ourselves as comfortable as possible. For the wimmen an' children, anyway. I fetched up some ham and some canned goods and oter eatin's in these yere canvas sacks. We might kindle a fire—"

"It's hardly possible," said Maitland. "We shall have to eat it cold."

"Oh, Robert," pleaded his wife, "isn't it possible that she may have escaped?"

"Possible, yes, but—"

"We won't give up hope, ma'am," said Kirkby, "until tomorrer w'en we've had a look at the canon."

By this time the others joined the party. Phillips and Bradshaw showed the stuff that was in them. They immediately volunteered to go down the canon at once, knowing little or nothing of its dangers and indifferent to what they did know, but as Kirkby had pointed out, the attempt was clearly impossible. Maitland bitterly reproached himself for having allowed the girl to go alone, and in those self-reproaches old Kirkby joined.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING RESTORED

A Simple, Harmless Remedy Quickly Relieves Catarrhal Deafness.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and improves the hearing. More than this, it strengthens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day, and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner.

Mothers should give the children Ely's Cream Balm for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless, and pleasant to take.

John W. Sicksel Smith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but never have found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by All Dealers.

THEIR ATTACK WAS HOPELESS

Alleged Dynamiters Sought to Have Indictments Quashed.

MERE SPARRING FOR POINTS

Not With Any Hope of Securing Dismissal of Charges Against Them, but in Order to Take Advantage of Any Technical Defects in the Indictments Later, the Defense Proceeds.

Indianapolis, March 13.—When Judge Anderson overruled motions to quash the indictments filed by attorneys for six Chicago defendants, the defense in the dynamite cases lost the first skirmish. Demurrers to the indictments were filed by all the forty-six defendants who appeared in court, and argument as to the validity of these indictments was begun.

After overruling every attack of the defense against the indictments, Judge Anderson halted the prosecution's "expediency" program and gave the indicted men nearly seven months in which to prepare for trial. Tuesday, Oct. 1, was the date set by the court for beginning the trials.

During the course of long arguments by attorneys for the defense, Judge Anderson frequently indicated that he did not agree with some of the views of the law advanced by the defense. In the camp of the defense it was admitted even before the hearing began that the defense had little or no hope of having their attack on the indictments sustained. It was said the fight would be made in order to put the defense in a position to take advantage of any technical defects in the indictments later, if the defendants were found guilty and an appeal was desired.

When court convened forty-six defendants sat in the United States district court room, the largest number of defendants ever indicted jointly for the same offense in the legal history of the country. To accommodate the defendants the chairs usually occupied by petit jurors were used, and grouped around the defendants in the jury box were thirty-four other defendants. All seating space within the bar was filled by attorneys in the cases.

TO STRIKE OR NOT TO STRIKE, THE QUESTION

Miners' Controversy to Be Determined Today.

New York, March 13.—The members of the committee of the anthracite workers which will meet the committee of ten of the anthracite operators this afternoon to hear the detailed reply of the operators to the mine workers' demands, began to arrive early at the Victoria hotel, which will be the headquarters of the committee while its members are in town. They consist of the principal officers of the three anthracite districts, Nos. 1, 7 and 9 of the anthracite workers, and John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, who is chairman of the committee and also chairman of the committee of bituminous miners, which will confer with the bituminous operators in Cleveland a week from today over the demands of the bituminous miners.

President White would not talk on the probable result of the refusal of the mine workers' demands, saying: "I will be better able to say something on that point when we have the reply from the operators."

Consent to Talk It Over.

London, March 13.—Following the joint conference of Premier Asquith and members of the government with the mine owners and miners yesterday afternoon, the outlook was regarded as more hopeful, although the official statement issued was colored. The optimistic view comes chiefly from the fact that all the mine owners, including those of South Wales and Scotland, who are disinclined to make further concessions, accepted the invitation to attend the conference, which will reassemble today.

They Raised the Price.

Washington, March 13.—The coal strike in England and the prospective coal strike in the United States threaten to deal a blow to the American navy. As a result the navy department has called upon its coal contractors for heavy advance deliveries of fuel, only to be met with the demand that the price in the existing contracts be advanced from $2.50 to $2.70 per ton delivered at Newport News. This demand was flatly refused by Secretary of the Navy Meyer.

A Hand-to-Hand Battle.

Rome, March 13.—The Turks attacked two battalions of Italian troops at Tobruk on March 10 and a battle ensued which lasted six hours. The Turks were finally repulsed after the Italians had made two bayonet charges. The Italian loss was fifteen killed and seventy wounded.

WORKERS SEARCH IN RUINS TODAY

mind—great enough at any rate for him to investigate.

How the fire ever started is as great a mystery as ever and will most likely remain so. There was only one fire upstairs and that was a small heater in the bath room. It is possible that the gas came on and the stove became overheated and ignited the furniture or wall paper before Mrs. Harris knew that a fire was in progress.

Or it is probable that the fire was started by an overheated flue. When James Alexander first entered the house, he says the stove downstairs was hot almost to the melting point. He turned off the gas in the stove. The fact that gas had come on in this stove enough to make the stove red hot naturally leads up to the theory that the gas in the bath room might have come on, or that the flue which carried the fumes from the downstairs stove was ignited by the intense heat.

From the position in which Mrs. Harris' body was found it is thought that she was upstairs when she died. James Alexander declares that she was not downstairs or else he would have found her when he made a circuit of the downstairs rooms.

All that remained of the body of Mrs. Harris was the trunk and it was so shrunken and horribly burned that it was not recognizable. The flesh was burned from her limbs and the bones crumpled into bits when the brick and other debris fell on her. The corpse was excavated from under a pile of brick at the southeast corner of the house. It appeared that the tall chimney which ran up through the center of the house fell on her.

Undoubtedly Mrs. Harris was dead before the fire was discovered and anyone reached the house. None of the early arrivals recall that they heard any outcry of any sort. Had any neighbors supposed from the first that Mrs. Harris was in the house, an effort would have been made to find her. James Alexander says that he would undoubtedly have gone upstairs, when he first entered the house, had he had any intimation that Mrs. Harris was there.

It has been pointed out since the tragedy that had the body of Mrs. Harris fallen in the cellar which was under the back half of the house, her remains would likely have never been identified as a large quantity of meat was stored there and this morning it was found that the meat was all burned to a crisp.

Nothing has so agitated Rushville in recent years as did the horrible disaster as Ashland farm yesterday afternoon. The terrible shock dealt the large circle of friends of Mrs. Harris and the members of the surviving family was so severe that few have yet recovered from it.

Mrs. Harris was an accomplished musician and was a member of the Ladies Musicale. She entertained the members of this organization at her home numerous times. She also belonged to all of the women's organizations of the First Presbyterian church of which she was a member. The Harris family lived at 332 North Perkins street until about twelve years ago when they moved to Ashland farm.

Mrs. Harris was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy White. Both of her parents have been dead a number of years. Besides her husband and son, Paul, she leaves a brother and a sister.

The loss of property due to the fire yesterday is estimated at about three thousand dollars. It is covered by $1500 insurance.

Congress Will Vote on Measure to Place Civil Service Postoffice Employees on Retired List.

PROVIDES FOR HALF SALARY

Rushville postoffice employees are deeply interested in a measure now pending in the lower house of congress which provides for the retirement of employees in the classified civil service in postoffices of the first and second class. The bill which was introduced by Congressman Maher, and referred to the committee on postoffices and post roads, provides that beginning with the first day of July next, following the passage of the act, all employees in the classified civil service in first and second class postoffices shall be eligible for retirement.

Section 2 provides that any such employee who has served thirty years or more and who shall have attained the age of sixty years, may retire and receive fifty per cent of his average annual salary received for the five years next preceding his retirement. It is further provided that any such employee who has served from twenty-five to thirty years and reached the age of sixty-two years or over, may retire and receive forty-five per cent of his salary. Another provision is that any such employee serving from twenty to twenty-five years, and reaching the age of sixty-five or over, may retire and receive forty per cent of his salary. It is further provided that no such employee shall be retained in the service after arriving at the age of seventy. Provision is also made for accumulating a fund sufficient to carry out the purposes of the act.

SCIENTIFIC CONSTRUCTION

It will be found of considerable significance to the average automobile buyer, that Ford construction assembles the motor, magneto, transmission, clutch and brake all in a compact, scientific assemblage in a single, air-tight, dust-proof housing. The entire mechanism running in an oil bath, accomplishing economy in original cost of construction, followed by a low cost of upkeep in every way. Less friction, less lubrication, less gasoline, less work in caring for the simple construction. The one great reason why it was made possible to reduce the weight of the Ford car, so highly appreciated by the thousands of Ford owners, the mechanical parts all in a compact body, lessening the amount of required material, making it possible for a general reduction in weight of the entire car, a positive proof of economy in tire consumption, and together with an absolute general reduction of maintenance, which has always been the claim of the Ford Company and proved by the authority of Ford owners. Come and make a detailed inspection of this compact mechanism and learn why so many Ford owners are so well pleased with their Ford cars. There are reasons why.
